BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

French Appreciation of German Music.

NEW YORK Oct. 30.—A special from Paris states that the grand concert at the Cirque D Hiver given under direction of Pasdeloup an attempt was made to perform "Siegfried's Death March," from Wagner's Nibelungen The musicians had no sooner begun than the audience behaved disgracefully hooting and shouting 'Abas Wagner' The march was concluded amid deafening and disgusting shouting Weber's overture to 'Der Freischutz' shared a similar fate, so deep seated is the hate which the French heart bears toward Germany and German music.

A Slanderer in Trouble.

PARIS Oct. 30.—Washburne, American minister has drawn the attention of Duke De Cazes to the calumnious insults contained in a letter attributed to M De Isummard, chief commissioner of France to the Centennial Exhibition He has not, however, demanded the recall of M De Isummard or any other measure, but confined himself to pointing out matters, leaving the French minister of foreign affairs to determine what reparation was due the United States. The manner in which the Duke received Washburne's representations leaves no doubt that complete reparation will be afforded, and the affair will be satisfactorily arranged A later telegram reports that M Ozenne, acting in the name of the minister of commerce after conferring with Duke De Cazes telegraphed on Saturday evening to M. De Isummard asking him before rigorous measures are adopted to state whether the objectionable letter is authorized It is said that M De Isummard has replied that it is apocryphal The affair has caused much excitement among Americans in Paris, and has called forth the following official note which is published this morning "A letter speaking offensively of the great nation holding friendly relations with France has been published in a French newspaper The letter has been attributed to a high functionary representing France at Philadelphia, but the government hopes it is apocryphal The government has however, demanded an explanation from the person concerned, and is now awaiting his reply in order to come to a decision in the matter"

The French Commissioner Declares the attack on the Centennial Management a Forgery.

PARIS Oct. 30.—The Figaro to day publishes a letter from De Isummard chief commissioner of France for the American centennial exposition declaring that the letter printed in that journal on Friday, attacking the management of the exhibition and containing other base charges the authorship of which is attributed to him is an utter fabrication De Isummard publishes a disavowal in the most formal and express terms and adds that if his denial be not sufficient he is in possession of documentary evidence to prove the truth of his statement.

THE EASTERN WAR.

The Turko-European Question.

A telegram from Paris says private advices from Constantinople represent the French and German ambassadors have received instructions to support the proposal for a six weeks armistice.

A special from Berlin to the Russian organ Le Nord of Brussels declares that the triple alliance cannot be shaken and adds that in the event of a conference Russia will energetically uphold this in the programme of pacification originated by England

A Belgrade dispatch reports that Gen Tchernayeff has ordered the inhabitants to evacuate Deligrad An eye witness just arrived from Deligrad describes the position of Tchernayeff's army as follows The center occupies the heights of Djunis the right is behind Stalingovator and the left occupies Alexinatz On the whole it is in a precarious position

LONDON Oct 30.—A dispatch to the Standard dated Nisch Saturday reports that all operations on the part of the Turks had been stopped since Monday Rain prevents the troops from marching.

A Belgrade telegram to the Standard says Tchernayeff fell from his horse, and is confined to his bed He seems to be apprehensive of disaster and has warned the inhabitants of all the villages in the rear of Deligrad to leave The state of the Servian army is desperate No force has undergone such suffering since the retreat from Moscow

The Berlin correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Gen Ignatieff at a private audience has informed the sultan that if an armistice were accorded Russia he would be content to submit the question of autonomy to a conference of the powers The correspondent remarks that Russia certainly wants to exclude Turkey from the conference but if Austria is likely to persist in opposing any conference at all this part of Russia's proposals will not much embarrass Turkey

The Times Belgrade telegram confirms the report that Tchernayeff has been disabled It points to the orders for non combatants to quit Deligrade and the neighborhood as exceedingly significant

A Times dispatch from Vienna explains the contradictions concerning the capture of Djunis It says the position at Djunis consists of a series of entrenchments along the Djuniskar stream, the key of which is two large redoubts to the north of Djunis These were taken on the 23d There may be some positions further on which the Servians still count, and which they considered belonging to Djunis

A telegram to the Times dated Vienna, Sunday says information received there directly from Constantinople shows there is still a difference between the Russian and Turkish proposals for armistice—Turkey wishing to make the prolongation certain if peace is not concluded within the original term and Russia only admitting the possibility of prolongation

A Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he is informed that the sultan has accepted the armistice without conditions

The Daily Telegraph's Belgrade dispatch contains a sensational statement that a Russian force with consent of Germany and Austria and the co-operation of Roumania and Servia, will probably commence operations to day

A telegram to the Daily News from Belgrade announces that Tchernayeff has recovered and is expected to arrive in Belgrade where some decisive action is looked for involving a change of ministry and direct appeal to Russia for active intervention

Crushing Defeat of the Servian Army.

BELGRADE Oct 30.—A battle was fought yesterday in which the Turks drove the Servians from Djunis, after a crushing defeat Tchernayeff's army is cut in two and completely demoralized Horvatovich's command has retired on Kruchevatch, and a great panic prevails at Deligrade

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30.—Gen Ignatieff had an interview with the Sultan on Saturday, and with the Grand Vizier yesterday Subsequently the ambassadors of the six powers had a conference The Turkish minister held a council The prevalent impression regarding the situation is pacific.

BELGRADE Oct 30.—Particulars of the battle between the Turks and Servians state that the Turks attacked the heights of Djunis. The Servian artillery irritated at Gen Tchernayeff's deprecatory manner refused to fight, and abandoned their positions The dispatch says that by the efforts of Russian officers a body of Russian volunteers defended the heights desperately half of their number being killed The Turks carried their position, thus cutting the Servian army in two After the fall of Djunis, Gen Tchernayeff, with his staff and part of the army, retreated to Ragan), but has since been completely beaten and driven back upon Kruchevatz and Deligrade. Its positions are now untenable Last night parties went through the streets of Belgrade summoning sojourning Russian officers to proceed to the minister of war whence they were dispatched to the front Prince Milan left for the army escorted by a body of Russians

RAGUSA Oct 30.—Mukhtar Pasha has sent a force of Turkish troops by way of the Duga Pass to endeavor to revictual Niesic

VIENNA Oct 30.—The constitutionalist groups of the Austrian Reichsrath intend to send an address to the Emperor about Austria's Eastern policy

A dispatch from Constantinople says it is stated the Porte has accepted a proposal for a two months armistice with a proviso that if peace is not concluded within the time the armistice may be susceptible of two successive prolongations of six weeks each It is further provided that hostilities cease throughout Servia, Montenegro Bosnia and Herzegovina and that foreign military attaches proceed to the seat of war to settle the line of demarcation between the opposing forces

LONDON Oct 30.—A dispatch from Belgrade says At Lozinck Monday morning M Kortsoff at the request of Prince Milan, sent a dispatch to Livadia asking that Gen Ignatieff be instructed to obtain a six weeks' armistice or, in case he fails in that that Russia should intervene in behalf of Servia

THE NORTH POLE.

The Arctic Expedition Story.

LONDON Oct. 30.—The narrative of the arctic expedition is published After first encountering ice the expedition was detained several days in Fort Fayer It started thence August 8th but before reaching the shore of Grinnell Land the vessels were caught in an ice pack After this their progress northward was an incessant struggle through chance openings made in the ice by wind and current—the channel through which the ships moved constantly closing behind them The Discovery wintered in a well sheltered harbor on the west side of Hamn Basin a few miles north of Polaris Bay The Alert passed forward and rounded the northeast point of Grants Land, but instead of finding as expected a continuous coast 100 miles toward the north she found herself on the border of an extensive sea with impenetrable ice on every side and no harbor The ship wintered behind a barrier of grounded ice close to land Floating masses of thick polar ice had in meeting pressed up quantities of interminable ice into blocks frequently a mile in diameter and varying in height from 10 to 50 feet Obstacles of this kind destroyed all hope of reaching the pole by sledges Before the attempt was made a sledge party was obliged to make a road with pickaxes nearly half the distance it traveled as it was always necessary to drag sledge loads by installments The party really traveled 276 miles although it only progressed 73 All the cairns made by the Polaris expedition were visited At the boat depot in Bevens Bay a chronometer was found in perfect order which was left by the Polaris and was successfully drawn aboard the ship When at Polaris Bay the Discovery hoisted the American flag and fired a salute A bronze tablet with the following inscription was fixed on the grave of Capt Hall "Sacred to the memory of Capt Hall of the Polaris who sacrificed his life in the advancement of science This tablet is erected by the British Polar expedition who following his footsteps have profited by his experience" Two sailors of the Greenland sledge party were buried near Capt Hall's grave The sufferings of the sledge party from scurvy were frightful

The expedition under Markham and Parr which endeavored to reach the Pole consisted of 17 persons 3 became helpless and had to be carried on sledges 4 could barely walk and were unable to render assistance

Return of the Pandora.

ASPECTS OF THE CAMPAIGN

SPEECH BY HON H W SCOTT DELIVERED AT ORO FINO HALL PORTLAND OCT 21 1876

Man never is, but always to be blest The Democratic party never does win but regularly every four years declares it is just about to win a national victory Your Democratic politician untaught by the experience of adversity has not yet learned that a little arithmetic is a dangerous thing So now as on former occasions, he counts his votes in advance and will continue to count them till election day, only to find as he has so often found heretofore, that his hopes have disappeared in a thick and misty nebula of imaginary percentages of gains

Relying on a solid South they tell us they are sure to win But did they never hear of a solid North? Let them be assured that the spirit of the country is awakened and a solid North will respond to a solid South just as it did in the old days of agony and peril, when men looked each other in the eyes with stern determination and beat their burning breasts and joined together in high resolve to trample down and utterly stamp out the infamy of treason to national unity and national authority, and the infamy of revolt against the constitutional will of the people rightfully expressed through an election according to the spirit and forms of law

Therefore it is that the Democratic claim of success in this contest cannot be allowed. If there were a probability, if there were a real danger of it then it would be the duty of every patriotic citizen to cry aloud with every form of utterance he could frame into emphatic and solemn speech, that the country never faced a greater peril than it faces now But fortunately the main issue is so direct and plain that there is no mistaking it. On every great occasion and in every dangerous emergency there has been a response by the people which has protected and preserved the country, and it cannot be that a like response will fail now

Party divisions, we all know, are indispensable in a free government It ought also to be a familiar truth, worthy to have the currency of a proverb, that no great party can be altogether in the right, and no great party altogether in the wrong Recognition of this truth would make us more cautious of elevating mere opinions to the rank of first principles, and more fair and more tolerant in judging our opponents All have observed the tendency of opposing parties to balance each other by approximation to equality of strength. Such is the constitution of human nature that no political party can long maintain overwhelming numbers and unchallenged ascendency The measures of the victorious majority are supposed to be nearly what the people want, and the minority adopts them to a sufficient extent to secure standing ground and engage the support of the great class, who are afraid of extremes, and back and forth across the line of party division, which is often indistinct and difficult to trace, the great struggle for party supremacy goes unceasingly on. Through the action of the minority a constant check to extreme measures of partisanship is thus afforded, a principle of moderation is steadily enforced under the pressure of natural laws. In this way human society is saved from the consequences of many of its own acts of folly. As citizens we must take a decided part in politics, but it should not be forgotten that the duty is a sober one. As a master of political wisdom has observed, we ought to act in party with all the moderation which does not absolutely enervate that vigor and quench that fervency of spirit, without which the best wishes for the public good must evaporate in empty speculation.

Party is a body of men united for promoting by their joint endeavors the national interest upon some particular principle on which they are all agreed. He who believes in his own politics or thinks them of any weight, and yet refuses to adopt the means of having them reduced to practice or carried into operation, acts with singular perverseness or stubborn irrationality. He who stands wholly aloof from party plays a desultory and disconnected part, he declines to make an effort to carry his principles or opinions into execution, and therefore pursues a course which can never be complimentary to his own intelligence or profitable to any cause Choice must be made of party, but it by no means follows that when a political connection is formed the citizen is blindly to follow the opinions and accept the measures of his party in opposition to his own clear ideas and convictions. This is a degree of servitude which no independent mind will submit to But every practical man will readily find political company with which he will in the main agree. He must be strangely petulant or ill-tempered if he do not

From the first organization of our government two political theories or ideas have confronted each other on which parties have always been mainly divided The one idea is that the Constitution of the United States, at the time of its adoption, created a national government with powers of sovereignty paramount to State authority, the other, that the States are possessed of final or supreme authority, and that the general government is but an agent of their will

Though political parties have often been broken up into minor divisions the line of distinction between the two main bodies has always been on this very question of national or State supremacy, and here is the main line of division to day

When our present national Constitution was formed there was very powerful opposition to it in a number of the States, based on the known fact that it was the intention to create through this Constitution a national government to abridge the supreme authority which had always been claimed by the States, each for itself. The State rights party was numerous, and vigorous and influential in its opposition to an instrument designed to enlarge and confirm the powers of the General Government Finally, however, through the great influence of Washington and others it carried and became the fundamental law But the State sovereignty party did not surrender their dogma They continued to assert it, and at last by adroit political management obtained control of the government The leaders of this party embodied their creed in the celebrated resolutions of 1798 Probably they were intent only on gaining political power and did not mean that the doctrines they asserted should be used to destroy the general government and dissolve the Union nor foresee that secession would be the sure consequence of them Such nevertheless, has been the case When the southern States seceded from the Union they urged State rights as set forth in those noted resolutions and often re asserted by the Democratic party as their unquestionable justification for the act So the great civil war was the product mainly of this erroneous interpretation of the relative powers of the States and of the general government

All this is very familiar political history It is restated [illegible] not because it can be new to any [illegible] as a reminder that political parties are still divided substantially on the old line between national and State authority Here is the root and core of the two great theories or principles on which are arranged the opposite parties Other lines of division are fanciful or ephemeral This is distinct and permanent The dogma that State authority is supreme is so deeply rooted in the Democratic party that the great civil war, fought on this very principle and fought victoriously has not been able to eradicate it In our own State every Democratic convention persists still in virtually re asserting the old position of the party on State rights Underlying all dispute about financial and other issues and civil administration, the two opposite theories of the nature of the government have been perpetuated as the basis on which parties are chiefly divided Parties are thus to be judged by the whole tendency of their ways and history Viewed thus it is past question that the Democratic party has pursued on a wrong interpretation of the nature of the government a course that has been productive of the most terrible evils that have ever visited the country while the Republican party though not without its shortcomings has steadily adhered to and maintained the principles on which our permanence as a nation depends

To keep the mind steady amid the complications of local and temporary politics it is necessary sometimes to have recourse to elementary principles and facts, and to study over anew the historical tendencies of political parties Applying this examination and this test to the two parties at the present time, we cannot fail to see where the disadvantage of the comparison rests. The sacrifices of the great civil war were required to vindicate the principle of nationality against the position of the Democratic party This fact has passed into history It is written irrevocably No one now dares to assert that in this great struggle for national life the Republican party was not in the right It is not the record of this party that demands continual explanation and apology Even its adversaries are not bold enough to deny that its fidelity to national principles and its unconquerable fortitude in the agony of the struggle are an imperishable honor to its name The courage with which it grappled with slavery and overthrew it, in the face of Democratic opposition, the determined resolution with it kept faith with the freedman, conferring on him civil and political privileges as a logical and morally right result of his freedom and the fidelity it has ever displayed in guarding the sanctity of the public debt alike against open assaults and insidious designs of all adversaries are other great features of its record which opponents no longer dare to assail

In order to obtain any sort of standing for their candidate before the people the supporters of Gov. Tilden now feel obliged to protest that he always was an opponent of slavery; that he was a denouncer of secession that he favored and supported the war for the Union and that he was throughout an earnest advocate of the national cause. They deny with heat and indignation that he was the author of the dastardly and disloyal "peace platform" of the Democratic party in 1864 This denial I will consider presently. The argument for Tilden, you will perceive, (if we allow it to be true) is that he was much better during all that period than his party. By this argument the policy of his party during all that period is disclaimed and condemned in order to save him But this is a subterfuge merely. Mr. Tilden all that time was just what his party was. He was in fellowship with its ideas and in co-operation with its plans. No one of his supporters will gain anything for the cause he advocates by denouncing the record of his party in order to save the present candidate

On leading principles, therefore, the Republican party has an undoubted advantage, an unimpeachable record Its adversaries are not able to assail it on the great facts of its history, but attack it only on the methods of administration. It is not claimed that its record is perfect here. But let us try it by making comparison with the methods and practices of the party that criticises it.

The evils of administration which we have to cure are mainly those which were introduced by the Democratic party during the long period of its ascendency in the government. Chief among these is the abuse of the power of appointment and removal in the civil service, to further the ends of personal ambition and to promote individual and party schemes. We may grant that the Republican party, which has corrected so many other evils, has been remiss here. It may candidly be admitted that it has not risen to the fulfillment of its whole duty. Its organization has fallen latterly to a great degree under the control of men who press to the utmost the iniquitous spoils doctrine of the Democrats. It has unfortunately elevated to positions of influence and authority numbers of men who act on the theory that the offices are the Congressmen's own property, and that the chief duty of the official is not to serve the public and the government, but to be exclusively the partisan of the Senator or Representative by whom the power of appointment has been usurped. By such, the doctrine is unblushingly maintained that the true way to gain and to hold power in the republic is to bribe the people with the offices created for their service. The evil does not stop with requiring merely a party test for admission to official position and retention in it. Whoever displeases the Senator or Representative, or is accused or suspected of being unfaithful to his fortunes or his ambitions, is at once entered on the lists of proscription. It often happens that the man who has risen to temporary greatness is resolved to have a strictly personal following in the public service; and the autocrat will tolerate no difference of opinion and permit no independence of action. In his hands is the power of reward and punishment and he hesitates not to employ it. But this is not the settled practice and policy of the Republican party. It is imitated entirely from Democratic precedent and the methods of Democratic administration. Among Republicans there is and always has been a large element protesting against the spoils system But no protest against it has ever been heard from Democratic sources. To the celebrated Reginald Pole, a cardinal of England in the reign of Henry the Eighth, an expression is attributed to the effect that a man should always content himself with his own inward convictions, without greatly encumbering his thoughts as to whether there were errors and abuses in the church. Our Democratic brethren, very many of them, apply a like rule to their relations with their party The politicians of that party are the fathers of the system, and have always been proud of their offspring. Yet though certain Republican managers have succeeded for the present in bending a Republican Executive to their will, so that they are allowed to "control the patronage" of their respective States on the scheme just described, there is soon to be an end of this scandalous abuse. The letter of Gov Hayes is a crushing rebuke of it. Under his administration it will receive no favor The appointing power, he says, "has been suffered to pass into control of members of Congress," which is a great abuse. Public officers, he declares, "owe their whole service to the government and the people" which is equivalent to saying that they do not owe it to the Senator or Representative in Congress The system which supple politicians have copied from Democratic practice and attempted to introduce into the Republican party as a settled rule of policy, Gov Hayes rightly says "degrades the civil service and the character of the government." Let us elect Hayes and we shall have a President who is pledged not to tolerate a continuance of these abuses, but to force a return to the old principles of administration It would be futile to expect this reform from the Democratic party In view of that party's past history on this subject we should merely deceive ourselves if we indulged such expectation. We should be tainted with unpardonable malignity if we professed to believe all our opponents corrupt and wicked but we must soften into credulity below the milkiness of infancy to allow ourselves to be persuaded that this abuse of the public service will be corrected by a Democratic administration For the history of that party has been a steady demoralization of the public service in this direction For fifty years it has made public office the reward of partisan activity instead of the reward of independent and meritorious character under its later administrations it constantly proscribed such of its own members as would not become slaves of its policy and of the oligarchy that ruled it, and we all remember that under the vigorous discipline of Pierce and Buchanan all were struck down who would not become vassals of the party leaders. To a similar scheme of things much countenance has been given under Republican administration, but the decree of the party has gone forth against it, and the men who have thus abused their trust and their usurped authority may as well be preparing for the retirement that awaits them The Republican platform and the letter of the Republican candidate for President announce the purpose of the party and of a majority of the people of the country in respect of this abuse, in terms which express unqualified condemnation of those who have been foisting Democratic practice into Republican administration

Gov Tilden, too, professes to be for reform in this direction But how does he meet the demand? You will study his long letter in vain for any pledge that he will not follow the spoils system What he says on this subject is involved in bewildering circumlocution so as to have a double meaning or any meaning that interested persons choose to give it To the genuine reformer it breathes the word of promise to the ear only to break it to the hope to the jobber in patronage and spoils it presents pleasing assurance that personal service to party leaders, and blind and unscrupulous adherence to the party cause shall not fail of reward, but shall be in fact a sure passport to official favor In truth Gov Tilden could not take any pronounced stand against the doctrine of spoils For him such a position is impossible His party would not permit it if he should try nor has he ever shown any independence whatever of party methods, or called in question the so called supreme law of 'regular' party action He is in fact the embodiment of his party's ideas, methods and practice, and no one even among his supporters credits him with a disposition, still less with the necessary courage to make an attempt to reform them. Therefore when he comes to speak of this abuse of the civil service be by no means allows himself to be committed to an open pledge to [illegible] it but after a long paragraph in which he [illegible] of "two evils which infest the civil [illegible]" does not touch the real evil at all, [illegible] practice of bestowing office as a reward for [illegible] san service and for service to party [illegible] winds up with a promise to "displace the [illegible] worthy," by which he means all [illegible] cants, and, by making a clean [illegible] to [illegible] new deal of the spoils. The only [illegible] his party propose is, "the offices for De[illegible] and the spoils for the victors." No D[illegible] even pretend anything else.

Recourse to our political history will [illegible] some illustrations for this topic. In 18[illegible] Van Buren was appointed minister to [illegible] The appointment was made during the [illegible] the Senate, and the nomination was [illegible] body at the next session. After an [illegible] of several days it was rejected. T[illegible] to his confirmation was [illegible] ground, as alleged by Clay, that Van [illegible] introduced the odious principle of [illegible] into the general government. The [illegible] honors of the American p[illegible] put up to be scrambled for as the [illegible] sonal service to politicians and of [illegible] a system which was cha[illegible] corrupt and d[illegible] It was [illegible] Clay that Marcy [illegible] the [illegible] booting in politics, and [illegible] was the policy of his party.

He declared that his party [illegible] for victory, meant to enjoy the [illegible] they were [illegible] the [illegible] of success. The doctrine, he a[illegible] "to the victors [illegible] the [illegible]" ing in a maxim of [illegible] the Democratic idea of adm[illegible]

There can be no real ref[illegible] til the notion that subordinate [illegible] considered as simply the [illegible] herents of Cong[illegible] is completely ext[illegible] servants of their party [illegible] ous as it is, is far [illegible] tion that the p[illegible] claquers and tools of [illegible] him alleg[illegible] Such a [illegible] of the [illegible] to the last [illegible] public [illegible] it robs the [illegible] rience and knowledge of [illegible] ordinates of [illegible] makes them the [illegible] of their ephemeral [illegible] mistaken as to the [illegible] necessity of reforming it, [illegible] especial emphasis in [illegible] this topic. Gov. T[illegible] try will [illegible] form will be [illegible]

It is the duty, of the [illegible] reins of gov[illegible] rigid [illegible] bility of [illegible] ment of the [illegible] fections of the D[illegible] which has [illegible] Republican, but [illegible] to [illegible] still [illegible] accountability [illegible] and the [illegible] of public [illegible] they were under D[illegible] The spirit of [illegible] ity is [illegible] [illegible] but we may [illegible] than in fo[illegible] confi[illegible] that the [illegible] fierce light of [illegible] in public life [illegible] many [illegible] of the [illegible] all [illegible] of the [illegible] have b[illegible] which [illegible] list of [illegible] than that which has [illegible] books since that [illegible] makes no claim to [illegible] It does not contain all the [illegible] There is [illegible] in the [illegible] fear to [illegible] tion with that of its [illegible] deal here that it sh[illegible] as you will now and [illegible] ficial has proved to [illegible] that [illegible] the [illegible] ment there was [illegible] is that this sort of [illegible] of [illegible] but it may [illegible] that it does not lie in the [illegible] to [illegible] party, and [illegible] tion [illegible]

It may be boldly said that [illegible] that has [illegible] cons[illegible] was [illegible] morally sound [illegible] it is [illegible] suppose that things have [illegible] the Democratic [illegible] ernment the [illegible] proportionately [illegible] if there were no [illegible] vigilantly [illegible] now.

It is enough to add on this [illegible] sults of D[illegible] through official figures, [illegible] to the money coll[illegible] and [illegible] were far more num[illegible] and [illegible] ponding sums than now. D[illegible] of Grant the [illegible] and [illegible] less than under the admin[illegible] Van Buren, Pierce and B[illegible] cratic part[illegible], as has been well [illegible] of rashness when they [illegible]

We have a right to [illegible] party and the record and [illegible] dates. A party that [illegible] lenging this exami[illegible] if the facts of political [illegible] criticism against it.

The country has been told [illegible] in speeches that the Dem[illegible] cepts the results of the last [illegible] ing the overthrow of the [illegible] the guarantee of civil rig[illegible] and [illegible] frage, and the [illegible] edness of the [illegible] beyond this hollow promise or [illegible] not an incident to show that the [illegible] a single step to guard the [illegible] preserve the rights guaranteed by [illegible] to the Constitution. Take the [illegible] ment, by which slavery was [illegible] whose votes passed it. Every D[illegible] voted against submitting the [illegible] States for ratification. Why did [illegible] cause they thought slavery ought [illegible] ished. When the amendment was [illegible] ery State which had a Dem[illegible] rejected it. Again, when the four[illegible] ment, which establishes equal civil [illegible] before the Senate every Dem[illegible] corded his vote in opp[illegible] to it. [illegible] ment, too, was rejected by D[illegible] and several States, the [illegible] Democratic, undertook to withdraw [illegible] tion previously given, of which [illegible] Oregon was one. Then [illegible] the [illegible] suffrage amendment, and the D[illegible] latures of Oregon, California, Kentucky, [illegible] Maryland, Tennessee, Ohio and New [illegible] jected it. There was not one of the [illegible] tion acts which had a Democratic vote [illegible] single civil rights bill which received [illegible] and after these measures were adopted [illegible] able resistance was made to them by the [illegible] cratic party—this party which so strongly [illegible] equal rights, and so heartily accepts the [illegible] Constitution. Are not these things the [illegible] history? Who will have the [illegible] to [illegible] say them?

But do they really rejoice at these [illegible] their confession sincere? Is it a sign that [illegible] making its way into their minds? No; it is [illegible] that truth is forcing its way into their [illegible] The spirit which actuates them is [illegible] spirit of duplicity, they are forced by the [illegible] party emergency and political necessity to [illegible] the truth, to confess enough for their [illegible] tion and not enough for their amendment [illegible] great dramatist, he the myriad-minded, who [illegible] to the bottom of the universal human [illegible] ly characterizes this kind of confession, [illegible] repentance. TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 31, 1876.

WHO ARE VOTERS?

Various erroneous ideas, it appears, prevail in the community respecting the requisite qualifications of voters at the approaching election, based, we take it, on a vague notion that there is some difference in that respect between an election for Presidential electors and Congressman and an election for State officers. We have been in receipt lately of several letters of inquiry on the subject, in some of which special classes of persons are mentioned, with request for information whether such are voters. The constitution of the State, Art. II., § 2, defines the qualifications for voting. We quote the section entire:

Sec. 2. In all elections not otherwise provided for by this constitution, every white male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who shall have resided in the State during the six months immediately preceding such election—and every white [illegible] of foreign birth of the age of twenty-one [illegible] and upwards, who shall have resided in the United States during the six months immediately preceding such election, and shall [illegible] declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States one year preceding such [illegible], conformably to the laws of the United [illegible] on the subject of naturalization, [illegible] be entitled to vote at all elections authorized by law.

[illegible] amendments to the National [illegible] made after our State Constitution was adopted, the word "white" is [illegible] inoperative, and the State Con[illegible] should be read simply "every [illegible] citizen," &c. With this modification [illegible] above quoted is the law of this [illegible] for all elections, Presidential and [illegible]onal, as well as State and county. [illegible] of it would seem to ren[illegible] any further information [illegible], as it is plain and not capa[illegible] one construction on any [illegible] the qualifications of voters. [illegible], however, to have their [illegible] more definitely.

[illegible] "Can a person of for[illegible] vote for President before he is [illegible] naturalized citizen of the United [illegible]

[illegible] But he must have filed his intention to become a citizen,—must have [illegible] his first papers," as it is com[illegible] at least a year previous to [illegible]

[illegible] inquires: "Can a person of [illegible] who came to America before [illegible] years of age, vote [illegible] his final papers of nat[illegible]

[illegible] person does not come within [illegible] two general classes of voters [illegible] Constitution. The naturali[illegible] of the United States provide [illegible] over twenty-one years old, [illegible] birth, who has resided in the [illegible] five years previous to mak[illegible] for citizenship, and [illegible] country before he was [illegible] old, may be naturalized [illegible] papers. In such case [illegible] are dispensed with so far [illegible] right to have the final [illegible] for any other purpose. A [illegible] is entitled to admis[illegible] immediately, and [illegible] him to vote; but with[illegible] he is not a legal voter. [illegible] of foreign birth, who has [illegible] his first papers, but who [illegible] army to preserve the Union, [illegible] without taking out his [illegible]

[illegible] accepts service in the [illegible] it to, or as a substitute [illegible] out of the first papers, for [illegible] granting final papers, but [illegible] person does not come [illegible] scription of voters which [illegible] gives.

[illegible] who is a native born [illegible] United States, but who has [illegible] six months in Oregon, vote [illegible] President?"

[illegible], whether native or for[illegible] legally vote in Oregon until [illegible] in the State six months. [illegible] were otherwise we could im[illegible] adjoining Territories, where [illegible] no vote for President, enough [illegible] any way that might be [illegible] question between parties [illegible] simply a question of the [illegible]

[illegible] material difference between [illegible] elections is that voters are [illegible] to vote in their own counties [illegible] in county elections.

[illegible] the American people [illegible] question whether they are to [illegible] Reform or Tilden and Tam[illegible] part will the people of Oregon [illegible] of that question? Will [illegible] and overlook the perils of [illegible] will they act intelligently and [illegible], and cast their votes for honest [illegible] civil service reform and equality [illegible]? Will they be guided by pre[illegible] voting for Tilden and Tammany, [illegible] be guided by their judgment, and [illegible] who says the whole Tam[illegible] of political spoils is wrong and [illegible] thrown? It is an important [illegible] more important in view of the [illegible] three electoral votes of Oregon [illegible] the fate of the Republic. Let [illegible] put it to his conscience, not his [illegible], but his honest individual [illegible], whether he will take the responsi[illegible] subject his country to the risk of [illegible] in the Presidential chair, where [illegible] himself with the hungry [illegible] spoils hunters and Confederate gen[illegible] whether he will put the safety of his [illegible] above all other considerations and [illegible] Hayes and Wheeler.

[illegible] noted that the arrest of Marcus and [illegible], the managers of the bogus tax-receipt [illegible] in Philadelphia, causes quite a sensa[illegible]. No wonder. This thing of hounding [illegible] of reformers with a lot of detectives is no light matter. It threatens the liberties of the people. The people of Philadelphia can not be too sensitive on this subject, and the whole nation should put its foot down on the proceeding at once. Had these two gentle[illegible] been let alone and permitted to carry out their reformatory measures, they would have [illegible], in all probability, fully 50,000 votes to the poll lists of the city and State in whose [illegible] their patriotic efforts were making. Is it a matter of no consequence?

And now comes E. W. Stoughton, an [illegible] member of the New York bar, and in [illegible] past somewhat conspicuous as a Democratic politician, and files a replication to Mr. Tilden's answer to the charges made against him of complicity with Tweed in the election frauds of 1868. Mr. Stoughton is of opinion that it can be proved from sworn statements of Mr. Tilden that that great reformer knowingly allowed Tweed to issue the circular over Tilden's name, which has been of late denounced by the latter as a forgery. What with his income business, his railway record and his connection with the Tweed ring, Mr. Tilden has his hands pretty full, one would think. And when the infamous course now being pursued to carry New York and Pennsylvania for him, is added to the other ugly chapters in his career, it would seem indeed a discouraging prophecy for the future of popular government if he could be elected President.

The St. Paul Pioneer-Press, referring to Attorney General Williams' report that Oregon is safe for Hayes and Wheeler, takes occasion to remark that it would have been safer if Williams had not made any speeches out here. Now we should like to ask the Pioneer-Press what it knows about Judge Williams, that it should speak of him in this manner.

The Standard does not publish the news of of the capture of the 50,000 bogus poll tax receipts in the hands of the Democratic committee in Philadelphia. The Standard is an "organ;" and, of course, does not give but one side.

THIS COMPANY IS AT ALL TIMES PREPARed to loan moneys upon improved City Properties and Farming Lands for 2, 3, 4, 6, 6 or 8 years, repayable in one sum when period expires, or if borrowers prefer it by installments.

INSTALLMENT TABLES.
Interest 10 per cent.
Fixed payments of $354 75 every half year not only wipes off every $1,000 loan in 4 years, but also all interest thereon.
Fixed payments of $129 50 every half year not only wipes off every $1,000 loan in 5 years, but also all interest thereon.
Fixed payments of $112 75 every half year not only wipes off every $1,000 loan in 6 years, but also all interest thereon.
Fixed payments of $101 00 every half year not only wipes off every $1,000 loan in 7 years, but also all interest thereon.
Fixed payments of $92 25 every half year not only wipes off every $1,000 loan in 8 years, but also all interest thereon.

These tables are well suited to persons receiving rents from properties, or having only small incomes from their farms, who may desire to build houses, or pay off their mortgage indebtedness gradually so as to stop interest, which is only calculated on the balance of debt due each year or half-year.
No loans made beyond 40 per cent. of the real value of the land or property to be mortgaged.

ALEX. THOMPSON, Shipowner, Dundee.

OBJECTS.
This Savings Bank has been formed at the desire and under the auspices of thirty-one gentlemen, citizens of Oregon and Washington Territory who have become stockholders therein along with certain other gentlemen in Scotland to supply a want hitherto much felt, namely an institution where similar to those in California, the working, farming and other classes of Oregon and Washington Territory may from time to time deposit their various savings along with the Bank's own capital for investment in Oregon and Washington Territory (to which the Bank's operations are limited) secured from Mortgages over City Properties, Farming and other Lands for the purpose thereby of assisting to develop the industries of the North Pacific Coast.
The Bank's Directors and Officers in Oregon having had considerable experience in finance and real estate securities, their policy will be to guard depositors' moneys and the stockholders' capital by loaning only on first class securities, high interest being a secondary consideration. The Bank does not therefore seek to employ its funds in a commercial banking business, confining its operations strictly to those securities with which its Directors are familiarly acquainted, such as real estate loans, advances on bonds, assignments and similar securities which are not fluctuating in value; hence no loans will be made on Promissory Notes alone, or Bills of Exchange and such like.

Security to Depositors.
The security for repayment of Depositors' moneys is two-fold:
1st. Not only the mortgages, assignments, bonds and other pledges on which the Bank's deposits are carefully loaned and the real estate secured thereby, which must be located in Oregon and Washington Territory; but also.
2d. The Bank's own $300,000 capital specially pledged for the safety of depositors, in order that all losses (if any) shall be made therefrom, thus forming a double security for depositors' moneys.
No charge for entrance fee or pass books.
Deposits received from $2 50 and upwards.
Rates of interest on application.
Hours, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.
Certificate of Incorporation, Constitution, Articles of Association, Regulations and By laws for depositors, may be seen at the Bank's office.
By order of Directors,
WILLIAM REID,
Managing Director.

SPEAKING LAST EVENING.

DISCUSSION OF THE POLITICAL QUESTIONS OF THE DAY LAST EVENING, BY DR. J W WATTS AND E. A CRONIN

Oro Fino Theater was jammed to overflowing last evening by our citizens to listen to the joint discussion between Dr J W Watts Republican nominee for Presidential Elector and E A Cronin Esq Democratic candidate for Elector

By consent Mr Ben Simpson was selected as chairman and time keeper

DR J W WATTS

Opened in an hour's speech He referred to the two faced character of the Democratic platform showing that the Democracy were still as thoroughly rebellious as when in 1861 they marched to battle against the stars and stripes The Doctor was in favor of peace he wanted to see that those in power would keep the peace he believed they ought to repent before they went into power they ought to show that they have repented of their past misdeeds of the blot that they now would so gladly (apparently) wash out But as yet they had failed to bring forth fruits meet for repentance

But the Democratic party wants power to sustain the national credit Buchanan borrowed at ten per cent interest at a much greater discount than Grant does at 4½ per cent interest In what does the credit need restoring? It is higher than it ever was before Again the Democracy want power to restore the national honor He referred to the fact that on the island of Cuba three men were condemned by the powers of that island but when it was known they were protected by the American flag not a hand was raised or a gun fired It was protection then Blockade runners had plundered our commerce—the war was concluded and Republican statesmanship demanded reparation and as a result $15,000,000 of gold was paid over—a ship load—by the British Lion Other illustrations were given what higher proof of statesmanship do you want?

If Tilden is elected the South will control the administration A solid South means rebel rule Caucus is all powerful in the Democratic party The South will control the caucus and therefore the Government

The Democratic platform claims to be devoted to the constitution and its amendments Devotion means love ardent and warm No one believes that they are sincere in this They have all the time claimed that these amendments were not adopted in a constitutional manner, they have been fought at every step by the solid Democratic party and now it is a sham and a delusive snare to say that they love these amendments It will not be believed

The history of the Republican party is a proud one it is one which every true patriot may be proud to own Bad men have crept into it, but they can no more dim its glorious record than can the spots on the sun shade it at noonday It has saved the nation from disruption, it put down the most powerful rebellion the world ever saw, it armed equipped and sent out the most powerful army the world has ever seen Its record is a glorious one It has built more railroads more telegraphs and steamships than were ever known before Our national wealth has increased and now, with Hayes and Wheeler elected, and confidence restored, the country will start on a career of renewed prosperity Is it common reason to take the government from the hands of those who have done so much and give it to those who have fought this party of progress, and have striven to retard its progress? No rather let that glorious party of progress go on, on until the next Centennial and not stop them until time itself shall be no more

What has the Democratic party done since the Republican party came into power? Its history from 1860 to 1865 is too well known From every part of the land the sleeveless arm, the crutch, and the maimed face bear sad and sorrowful witness to the traitorous acts of the Democratic party The widows and orphans of those who laid down their lives for the nation bear further witness to the attempt of the Democratic party to disrupt the nation No wonder they cry down with the bloody shirt. No wonder they say that is a dead issue No wonder they want it passed over in silence But no the people will remember these things, and on the 7th of next month they will put forever at rest the question.

He closed by a comparison of the two candidates for President amid tumultuous applause

E A. CRONIN, ESQ,

Followed in a speech of one hour and a quarter His argument was specious, and consisted principally in defending the political record of Governor Tilden and reiterating the old charges of 'corruption' against the present administration He did not deny but what Gov Hayes was an honest man and one whose private and public character is above reproach but it could not be said that he was a great man in any sense

Roscoe Conkling was Grant s first choice and Morton his second, but finding that neither of these men could be nominated he favored the nomination of Hayes If Hayes should be elected, he will be like clay in the hands of the potter He will not dare to oppose one measure advocated by the corrupt crowd of politicians who have run Grant s administration Mr Cronin devoted some time in proving how pure and honest Gov Tilden was Bristow a Republican prosecuted the whisky distillers, and Tilden prosecuted the thieving Tammany crowd Bristow was retired for the services he had rendered the country and Gov Tilden for his services was honored by being nominated for the Presidency Hayes election simply meant a continuation of Grantism The speaker then read from the New York World the letter written by Gov Hayes to the secretary of a lodge of the American Alliance in which he declined to become a member of that order. He then turned his attention to the Chinese question, and discussed its features at some length, taking strong grounds against the immigration of the Chinese to this coast To prove the negative non committal position of the Republican party on the question, the speaker read that portion of the platform referring to the question Although Mr Hayes has been elected governor of the great State of Ohio three times the record fails to show where he had ever cast a vote or advocated reform or retrenchment in the public administration of affairs He dwelt at some length on the corrupt practices of the present administration Mr Cronin's speech was replete with keen sarcasm and bristling with sharp points but he failed most lamentably in meeting the facts and figures and clear strong logic presented by Dr Watts He shuffled and artfully evaded the main points and incisive thrusts made by his opponent with all the consummate tact and skill of an attorney He concluded his speech by paying Gov Tilden a high eulogy denouncing Grantism and declaring that Oregon would go for Tilden and reform at the polls next Tuesday by a round majority

Dr Watts followed in a fifteen minutes speech during which he warmed up the epidermis of his opponent in good style He made some very strong points and gave the old Democracy such vigorous digs in the short ribs as made the old carcass fairly wince and groan With his stentorian voice the Doctor waked up all the sleeping echoes about the old theater and roused the audience to the highest pitch of excitement and enthusiasm When he asked the question "Shall we surrender it to the hands of the Democracy next Tuesday the reins of this government there came up such a tremendous 'No' that the building trembled to its foundation The Doctor continued to warm with his subject and to wax eloquent slashing right and left dealing the Bourbons some terrific blows until the chairman called time and he was compelled to relinquish the floor Cheer after cheer rose from hundreds of throats first for Watts then for Cronin then for Hayes then for Tilden and next for Williams and then for Lane until everybody was hoarse

The meeting was very enthusiastic each speaker being received with prolonged cheers and greeted with frequent and hearty applause during the course of his speech Although there was no lack of warmth and [illegible] in the speeches [illegible] out was hardly [illegible] [illegible] vanished

GREAT BONANZA.

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERERS

We had thought the days of great mining excitements had passed in Oregon, and that reports of fabulous discoveries of the precious metals had lost their power to entice men of toil from their usual avocations and lead them through summer's heat and winter's cold across plains and over mountains in search of wealth which in most cases proved a will o the wisp and was never overtaken nor found But a new excitement has been recently raised by the reported discovery of mines somewhere to the east of the Cascades and in Oregon which surpass in extent and richness even the wealth of Ormus or of Ind and compared with which the famous silver mines of Peru and the great Comstock lodes are positive paupers [illegible] to facts as stated to us by two of the six men who claim to be the original discoverers and owners of this wonderful source of wealth Having some knowledge of the spot beforehand on or about the 8th of last September George White George Ross Robert Bruce I d S Simmons and Alonzo Sewell left this city and after eight days travel reached a spot the locality of which they will of course not divulge where they found quite a large space of ground covered with

[illegible] SPRINGS OF SILVER

Where the metal in a sort of mushy state and of a grayish color constantly bubbles up from the bowels of the earth and where wagons could be loaded with the precious metal at only the expense of dipping it up The space of ground covered by these springs is said to be a whole quarter section and if one half the story told be true silver will soon be worth less in the market than lead It is said that some of the molten mass so abundantly found and so accessible was brought to this city and assayed and that the result was $9470 to the ton and that the secret leaked out and two or three parties are already far on their way to this new land of silver springs Robert Bruce who brought in the metal and who claims to have helped discover this fabulous treasure called on us last evening and assured us that the stories of its richness are not at all exaggerated but rather fall below the enormousness of the find " The names of the men who claim to be and we suppose are the original discoverers are given to us as I d S Simmons F J Robinson, Robert Bruce Alonzo Sewell Geo White and George Ross and we have given them in full that future generations may know who first found the most eligible site in all creation for a mint What a pity the State has given away the mint building at The Dalles as it might be moved to these springs and put at once into continuous operation without wood water or grass the only thing necessary being the molds the metal being already melted and ready to be run into bright shining trades and half dollars by the millions of billions

MR. SCOTT'S SPEECH.

(Concluded from First Page

[illegible] of Congress attests the unparalleled [illegible] of a victorious people But now we [illegible] the naked question before us whether we [illegible] put the government wholly in the hands of [illegible] who essayed to overthrow it and those who [illegible] with them in the attempt To get [illegible] is their sole object, they are now about to make a desperate effort to capture what they lost on the battle-field and to seize the government of the country. They care for nothing but [illegible] and the opportunity it will bring them [illegible] them success and they will still entertain [illegible] that the struggle they made with arms [illegible] in vain The united vote of the [illegible] that were in rebellion will be wielded for a [illegible] purpose Several of them undoubtedly [illegible] Republican, Mississippi [illegible] majority of 30,000 votes South Carolina is in the [illegible] list, yet it is openly proclaimed that these [illegible] are to be made to vote for Gov Tilden and [illegible] thing is talked of as if it were a piece of [illegible] movement, as justifiable in politics as a stratagem in war With the Southern States com[illegible] lately in rebellion and moving [illegible] force for a definite and common [illegible] it is that all who have here [illegible] to the cause of their country, sus[illegible] through the storm of battle and against [illegible] of secret foes, should now [illegible] to defeat this attempt Besides, it [illegible] reverse of justice to allow those who [illegible] their country to become rulers of it. It [illegible] that the Democratic candidates were [illegible] of the rebellion, the instant and [illegible] is that they did not oppose it, [illegible] contrary were active members of the [illegible] North who held that it was wicked [illegible] constitutional to resist secession and a [illegible] the war to maintain the Union [illegible] not heard for the country in [illegible] war, and no man should be placed [illegible] the government who was not loyal and publicly known to be a war man [illegible] his voice, his influence and [illegible] of the Union.

[illegible] spectacle of men who in [illegible] war against their country [illegible] in its high legislative councils [illegible] bill after bill to pay out of the [illegible] loss for [illegible] resulting from [illegible] own acts of rebellion. Members [illegible], members of the [illegible] soldiers of the Confederate [illegible] the Congress of the United States [illegible] of claims of this description. [illegible] are presented to bankrupt the [illegible] compilation of these bills shows [illegible] hundred in number already, [illegible] the greater claims are known to be [illegible] more propitious season An estimate [illegible] claims which have been brought [illegible] of the present House, gives [illegible] and sixty million dollars. The [illegible] statement will illustrate the gene[illegible] multitude of the bills for smaller

[illegible] A bill to pay La[illegible] College, Tennessee, $34,300 for [illegible] by United States troops.

[illegible] of Tennessee A bill to pay [illegible], at Nashville, $20,694 90 [illegible] taken from said building

[illegible] of Virginia—A bill to pay [illegible] Lee University (formerly Wash[illegible]) $17,494 for injury done to said [illegible] 1864.

[illegible] of Virginia—A bill to pay [illegible] for timber cut from the Poor [illegible] by [illegible] soldiers.

[illegible] of Mississippi—A bill to [illegible] $7,030 for wood and [illegible] his farm near Vicksburg.

[illegible] of Missouri—A bill to pay [illegible] $15,800 for their [illegible] destroyed by [illegible] orders.

[illegible] A bill to pay the [illegible] County, Tennessee, the [illegible] amount of claim of [illegible] of the occupancy by United [illegible] Court House.

[illegible] Virginia A bill to pay Se[illegible] for damage to his real [illegible], etc.

[illegible] of Missouri—A bill to pay the [illegible] $17,475 for damages done [illegible] Union Army.

[illegible] of Tennessee A bill to pay [illegible] $1,441 66 for use and [illegible] by military forces of

[illegible] that this class of claims is [illegible] by the chances of war, [illegible] paying them, then every [illegible] of the South resulting [illegible] be made good out of the [illegible] a building was occupied or injured or destroyed in bat[illegible] crop was trampled down by [illegible] land was taken possession [illegible] fortifications; or timber [illegible] and bridges or open a passage [illegible] will be paid for payment, and [illegible] controlled by the South as [illegible] can not say nay Nor let it be [illegible] a groundless alarm If so, what [illegible] of bills like those just spoken [illegible] the enormous claims for refund [illegible] which already foot up sixty-eight [illegible] the claims, carefully pre[illegible] and slaves, which would reach [illegible] millions? Here are your "re[illegible]ing of the national debt and ex[illegible], yet proposing to double the debt [illegible] of their own rebellion [illegible] and impudence never [illegible] heights before. But bold as [illegible] may be sure that at the first [illegible] the Democratic-Confederate [illegible] of both branches of [illegible] of the nation, pay[illegible] will be vigorously pushed. [illegible] feel able to afford it? Can it [illegible] risk? Prudence surely would re[illegible] be established against the [illegible] injustice and outrage Not [illegible] sought for the losses [illegible] conceived with cal[illegible] with deliberate resolu[illegible] of the rebellion the justifica[illegible] the admission that [illegible] throw the Government was as [illegible] to sustain it, is clearly seen [illegible] contest which is forced [illegible]. If the Government now goes [illegible] of the Confederates they will claim [illegible] of their political action, and will [illegible] that the rebellion is no longer [illegible] They will believe that the [illegible] of the nation, in part at least, of the [illegible] that was maintained by [illegible] as an admission by [illegible] the colored man ought not to [illegible] and political rights which have [illegible], and will persuade themselves [illegible] been given leave to press for pay[illegible]" with which Congress is al[illegible] besieged and the treasury threat[illegible]. The people of the United [illegible] rightly understand what is at stake, to rehabilitate the political doctrines [illegible] and rebellion, nor will [illegible] a man who fought for the Union [illegible] known supporter of the doctrine [illegible] "no power to coerce a State," and [illegible] sympathizer with those who, according [illegible] Democratic theory were only [illegible] rights." This political cam[illegible] motion on the part of supporters [illegible] Hendricks for reversal of judgment [illegible] of the tremendous struggle. If [illegible] argued they will not be likely [illegible] argument for putting the Democrat[illegible] now can be good which would not [illegible] as good at any election for the past [illegible]. Because the party was beaten in an [illegible] years ago the Southern wing of it [illegible] rebellion, and the Northern wing [illegible] rebellious political allies such sympa[illegible] aid and comfort as opportunity would [illegible]. They have never ceased to charge Repub[illegible] with the responsibility of the war because [illegible] such an outrage such pressing times [illegible] to beat at an election the Democrat[illegible] which had ruled so long! Is not the climax [illegible] reached, when we find the ex-Con[illegible] Washington complaining of the bur[illegible] of the public debt, and denouncing the party [illegible] called the Government from putting [illegible] the rebellion as cheaply as it might have

[illegible] we come to comparison of the candidates, [illegible] and Wheeler on the one side and Tilden and [illegible] on the other, we find a variance as wide [illegible] and the history of the parties for [illegible] respectively stand

[illegible] the Southern section of the Democratic [illegible] enraged by the attitude of their North[illegible] brethren, went into armed rebellion [illegible] lost an election, Hayes was among [illegible] first to spring to the support and defense of an [illegible] country. With him there was no hesi[illegible] no stopping to split hairs on the debate as [illegible] reserved right to resist armed a[illegible] on [illegible]. He was not one who, like Til[illegible] city, "to [illegible] him. [illegible] tion in the field he refused political honors that he might remain at his post in the army and though grievously wounded and therefore in such a condition that he might have retired from the field and [illegible] with a high [illegible] in Congress which the people of his district had tendered him he [illegible] that he would stay till the rebellion [illegible] that any man [illegible] adversaries can put it to nothing [illegible] which is not creditable to him [illegible] If desert be considered [illegible] Magistrate of the country [illegible] faithful [illegible] cessful statesman and the honest [illegible] accomplish [illegible] Willing [illegible] that Gov Hayes shall be judged [illegible] prepare the same test for Gov Tilden By their fruits ye shall know them [illegible] vation and it is quite as true of politicians as of other classes. Tilden's history [illegible] pay some attention

No one can dispute that Mr Tilden sympathized with the rebellion and opposed the war for the union In April 1861, President Lincoln issued his proclamation officially announcing the attack on Fort Sumter and calling for 75,000 volunteers. The day following a call in these words was circulated in New York "citizens of New York in favor of maintaining the constitution and the laws are requested to attend a meeting at Union Square on Saturday April 20th at 3 o'clock. An enthusiastic war meeting was the result and it was attended by patriotic citizens of both parties Gen Dix who had been Secretary of the Treasury in Buchanan's cabinet presided The eloquent and noble hearted Baker, our own great Senator, was present, and the occasion called from him a speech never surpassed in burning patriotism by mortal lips All the prominent Democrats were invited and many of them heartily responded forgetting party in the presence of the overshadowing danger Not so Samuel J Tilden The occasion which could inspire Baker with mighty speech, could not stir Tilden's cold and sluggish blood He was as indifferent to the call as the voyagers in the Homeric fable who had eaten the lotus and utterly forgotten their country Though urgently solicited by personal and party friends to sign the call for the meeting, he sulkily refused and would have nothing to do with it. This was his position at the outbreak of the rebellion. Shortly after, at a meeting of Southern sympathizers at Tweddle Hall, he could find a tongue, and when he did speak it was to declare "I will resist under any and all circumstances the effort to coerce the South into the union" He always showed himself opposed to every sort of effort to thwart the rebellious movement at the South and could find no warrant in the constitution to preserve the national life He was saturated with the state sovereignty and Confederate idea of politics, and with deliberation framed an elaborate argument to sustain the position assumed by the leaders of the rebellion

This argument he published in 1860 In October of that year, after the elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana had demonstrated that Mr Lincoln would be President, Mr Tilden wrote a long letter to Judge William Kent of New York and published it in the Evening Post (Oct. 27, 1860), taking precisely the ground which the Southern leaders had assumed as their warrant for secession, and arguing elaborately for their view of the "national compact." Let it be remembered that at this time secession was making rapid progress at the South, and the leaders of the conspiracy were anxiously watching the drift of the Northern mind It was of the utmost importance to them to know whether the Northern people would undertake a war for the Union, and the utterances of leading men like Tilden, arguing that the Union might be severed, were most welcome to them and gave great encouragement to their scheme I shall read an extract or two from this letter of Tilden's. Consider them and recall the circumstances under which they were deliberately written and published, and see whether the doctrine of secession is not affirmed in them with a distinctness which never was surpassed in the productions of Jefferson Davis himself, and which must, of course, have greatly delighted that leader's heart. I read:

"The masters of political science who constructed our system preserved the State Governments as bulwarks for the freedom of individuals and localities against oppression from centralized power They recognized no right of constitutional secession, but they left revolution organized when it should be demanded by the public opinion of a State, left it with power to snap the tie of confederation as a nation might break a treaty, and to repel coercion as a nation might repel invasion.

"As a rule of right and duty for the construction and execution of the Constitution, the theory maintained by Mr. Seward, and too extensively accepted, is entirely fallacious, as no contract governing complicated transactions or relations between men, and applying permanently through the changes inevitable in human affairs, can be effectual if either party intended to be bound by it is at liberty to construe or execute its provisions in a spirit of hostility to the substantial objects of these provisions. Especially is this true of a compact of confederation between the States, where there can be no common arbiter invested with authorities and powers equally conclusive with those which courts possess between individuals for determining and enforcing a just construction and execution of the instrument"

Which was as much as to say, as plainly as words could put it, "You of the South may go ahead and secede and break up the Union, our only bond is a 'compact of confederation between the States,' and 'no authority exists anywhere for enforcing an execution of this compact.'" There you have it, the Confederate theory, pure and simple Davis, Toombs, Yancey and Rhett did not claim more. Tilden told them, and they believed he was speaking for the Democratic party of the North, that each State had power "to snap the tie of confederation," and in case any Lincoln should object, the States might "repel coercion as a nation might repel invasion" To wage war against secession would be unconstitutional, an 'invasion' of sovereign States for an unlawful and wicked purpose You will see that Tilden's words stamp him as a secessionist equal to Jeff Davis himself Say rather far worse, for there were mitigating circumstances in the situation of Davis, but none whatever for this gratuitous proclamation of the Confederate theory by Tilden Of course the wide publication through the South of such opinions from prominent secessionists of the North, like the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency, did as much as anything else to spur the South on to rebellion It encouraged a belief that the North would make no resistance, and why should it, if Tilden was a true interpreter of Northern opinion? It will be clearly understood by the extracts from his letter that Tilden held the extreme State sovereignty doctrine, which affirms that the republic is not a nation, that the States are a mere confederation of independent powers represented by a common agent, and that it is in the province of any of these sovereigns to withdraw at any time from the confederation, in which case the so called bond of union is broken, and there is no authority in the remaining members to coerce the withdrawing sovereign to submission

Truly it has been well said that if the South had succeeded and Tilden should now be there as a candidate for President of the southern Confederacy, his record is such an one as could be quoted everywhere in his favor and all the hills and valleys of the South would resound with his praise

This doctrine of secession Tilden held throughout the war and asserted it whenever he had opportunity In many respects he is the most exact counterpart or duplicate of James Buchanan that could be imagined though he has more cunning and less conscience than Buchanan possessed In general there is a striking likeness between them in character in political theories and in personal ambitions These two Dromios of politics suggest each other at every turn Worn out selfish bachelors, both their lives devoted wholly to the intrigues of politics and to schemes of personal aggrandizement; reared both of them in the school of a party which makes everything venal and puts up the honors of the country and the emoluments of office as rewards for the most unscrupulous partisan activity both of them bound by every tie of life long political habit to [illegible] to the South and its politics both of them intensely sectional in their feelings and their [illegible] altogether with the secession [illegible] the South into rebellion both of them [illegible] assumptions and South [illegible] and both of them solemnly [illegible] that the government had no authority to throw [illegible] or make war [illegible] both of them loud with empty promises of reform in case of their election and with windy guarantees of incorruptible administration—which we shall see fulfilled by Tilden in case of his election precisely as the like promises were fulfilled by Buchanan both backed by a solid South and looking mainly to that section for future support, and therefore by that section controlled in their action,—where will a more perfect parallel be found in political history? If Buchanan were living, it would be as fit every way to elect him President as it is to elect Tilden

I shall be compelled to pass over very briefly the record of Mr. Tilden at the Chicago Convention in 1864 He was a delegate to that convention The rebellion was at its height Its authors were still looking hopefully for political divisions at the North which should compel the government to abandon the war Northern secessionists like Tilden had become more active than ever in their opposition to the war and daily grew louder in their clamors for peace In the disgraceful convention at Chicago, which [illegible] It was this resolution that pronounced the war a failure and [illegible] cessation of hostilities [illegible] unconditional surrender by the government to the rebellion The report of proceedings shows that this shameful and [illegible] platform was unanimously reported by the committee Mr Tilden uniting [illegible] responsibility for this platform and actually opposed it [illegible] protest on his part appeared [illegible] proceedings [illegible] the disgraceful platform stands—a sort [illegible] on which the Democratic party is [illegible] What would they not give to cancel history and get rid of this monument that [illegible] continually throws across their path the shadow of darkness and defeat! If a majority of the people had been as unfaithful to the country as Mr Tilden was when he and his committee reported this platform and the convention adopted it the rebellion would have been successful and it is very probable that the Southern Confederacy would have subjugated the whole country

It is therefore a fact as clear as the sun at noon day that while Hayes was at the front fighting the country's battles Tilden was in sympathy with the rebellion and counseling submission to the insolent assumptions of those who were carrying it on

Mr Tilden's history as a politician in his own State does him even less honor than this record of his participation in national politics and his claims to be regarded as a reformer are just about equal to his pretensions as a patriot. This history shows him to have been an intimate associate and ally of Tweed in the days of Tweed's power, a co worker with the Tammany ring constantly attending its conventions with Tweed Sweeney and the rest of the gang and co operative with them in all their political schemes until the publication of their thefts made their downfall certain Thurlow Weed who knows New York politics thoroughly—no one better—puts it thus in a recent letter 'Tilden is an adroit political manager He went all lengths with Tweed Connolly and the ring until by the exposure of their frauds in the Times it became evident they were doomed when he turned State's evidence, and by his personal knowledge of their operations helped to trace the stolen money into the pockets of his political associates.' If other evidence is wanted as to Tilden's political character and associations take that of Horace Greeley It is permissible, surely to call the last candidate of the Democracy for President as a witness to the character of the present one. I need not go at large into this narrative, you all have knowledge of the conspiracy in 1868 to give the electoral vote of New York to Seymour and to make Hoffman Governor You know how the plot succeeded. By colossal and unexampled frauds the thing was accomplished You recall the circular sent out just before the election signed 'Samuel J. Tilden Chairman Democratic State Committee,' requesting that advance returns from each town be sent to Tweed The object of that circular every person knows. To overcome the honest vote of the rural districts 37,000 false ballots were counted in the city They had notice how many were wanted, and they put them in The Democratic vote of New York city was swelled by these frauds to the prodigious figure of 112,522 Six years later, in 1874, Tilden's vote for Governor in the city was nearly 30,000 less, though every possible effort was made to push it to the highest point. You remember that Mr Greeley, in two "open Letters to a Politician," arraigned Tilden as one of the principal authors of these stupendous frauds The charge was sustained by very strong evidence, namely, the fact of Tilden's close intimacy with Tweed and the sending of the Tilden circular throughout the State requesting them to report facts which would enable the gang to commit the crime of ballot-box stuffing intelligently Greeley addressed Tilden in this way because he knew Tilden stood at the head of the conspiracy It is as a striking record for the model "reform" candidate for President. An accomplice of Tweed till Tweed was overthrown, chairman of the State committee during the worst periods covered by Tammany's frauds on the ballot box and on the public treasury, and never attempting to stay the current of this political iniquity but drifting with it and having a hand in guiding it so long as it was successful, and then at last, when the days of the ring were numbered, rushing valiantly to the front and trying to bear off the honors of a fight in which he had refused to engage till he saw it was an assured success,—this is the record of Tilden in connection with the politics of his State He now tries to deny that he knew anything of the circular which on its face gives evidence of the great fraud that was intended on the ballot-box, but he is as unfortunate here as in his oath as to his income, for it so happens that when Congress was investigating the election frauds some years ago Tilden then on oath admitted he had seen the circular before the election at Tammany headquarters and "understood" its contents. Though he disclaims the authorship he knew of the circular and made no protest against such use of his name He was probably too astute to entrap himself, but he helped to work up the scheme with his accomplices, in his zeal for the great Democratic party, now the party of "reform"

The reason why this job of ballot box stuffing will not now be repeated in New York City to an extent to give the electoral vote of the greatest of the States to the "reformer" is this The United States authorities now exercise supervisory powers over elections and the friends of the great reformer will find it impossible to get the bogus ballots into the boxes It has cost considerable money to put a stop to these frauds. You will remember that the Democratic House a short time ago proposed to have their revenge by impeaching President Grant for breaking up the little game, but afterwards deemed it prudent to drop it

Much that has been said in the comparison, or rather in the contrast, between Hayes and Tilden will apply to the candidates for the Vice Presidency

Wheeler has always been a firm advocate of national ideas, and a supporter of freedom Hendricks has been a partisan of the State supremacy dogma, an apologist of rebellion, a known and active sympathizer with secession and [illegible] defender of Southern politics

Hendricks, too, is distinguished as a champion of that large class who, ever since the war have been earnestly seeking an excuse to dishonor the financial obligations of the country He is his party's national advocate of that species of repudiation which essays to mask its purposes under the doctrine of inflation On this important subject the views of Hendricks and the inflationists have prevailed over those of that wing of the party which favor the system of sound finance and honest adherence to the obligations of the government. Tilden has surrendered to Hendricks in order to keep terms with the western Democrats The greenback organs of the party throughout the west which threatened to bolt in case Tilden were nominated now come to the front [illegible] his supporters declaring that his views on the financial question are all they could desire [illegible] of Tilden stand for hard money in New York and New England [illegible] Ohio and Missouri the jugglery of his letter of acceptance is expected to satisfy the rag money element [illegible]

It is [illegible] the better figure [illegible] his greenback [illegible] but he [illegible] for the resumption act [illegible] York Legislature he now demands its repeal to [illegible] of his party It is his only possible reason for thus doubling on his course

There is general depression of business throughout the United States, the natural result of over-trading or excessive speculation This was caused largely by expansion of the currency, which gave rise to a fictitious prosperity All values were enormously inflated The abnormal activity created by the war was a totally different thing from the legitimate and regular movement of business, yet it has been mistaken for it There is a class who perceive that the so called good times resulted from inflation [illegible]

But [illegible] Doubtless [illegible] superstructure built upon credit [illegible]

Now, [illegible] the best remnants of the pernicious system of over credits [illegible] to substitute [illegible] specie [illegible] get back to the specie system and conduct business thereon—this is the way out of present difficulties this the road to the only prosperity that can be sure and permanent To look for a remedy in more greenbacks would be madness like that in Lear it would be to

Kill your physician and bestow the fee
Upon the foul disease

Finance is not a theory but a science 'Experience,' says Dr Johnson, 'is the great test of truth, and is perpetually contradicting the theories of men' In every country where a great shock like our civil war has occurred, to cause a departure from the true principles of finance and of industry, the sure basis has been regained only through a long period of depression, and even of commercial misfortune More paper is merely the remedy of shallow politicians and legislators. It only increases the evil and makes the final recovery more difficult. We need not go groping in the dark, history furnishes examples and lessons enough We had them in the paper credits of our Revolution we may read them in the history of the paper currency of the revolutionary period in France It is the glory of human intelligence to profit by the lessons of mankind's collective experience But this we too often neglect or refuse to do We go stumbling on as if none had trod before us in these rugged paths and are arrested only when we gain experience in the shape of misfortune or suffering of our own These however, are admonitions which we cannot elude. They come with unerring certainty when the paths of error have been pursued True, it was necessity, the necessity of war, that drew us into this erroneous course, but the consequences are the same as if it had been taken by our free choice Our expanded and irredeemable currency is not the product of any man's forethought It was the last resource of a country which when forced to defend its life against the murderous weapons of its own citizens, had no other way to carry on the contest The very men who now clamor for fresh issues of greenbacks, are they who reclaimed against the issue at the start, when there was no other way to meet the sudden and great emergency caused by the rebellion

Resumption must be reached Republican legislation had designated a time for it, but a Democratic House of Representatives has rescinded the act. They tell us it is because the act was inoperative and could effect nothing If that were so, it was perfectly harmless Then why not let it stand? At all events it was a declaration of a sound principle by the Congress of the United States But the House has revoked the act and pronounced against resumption thereby giving notice, that in case of a national Democratic triumph, the policy will be to embark for an indefinite period on the sea of inflation Then we shall have ballooning and bubble blowing, speculation on speculation illusory hopes and gains, and fictitious prosperity,—and afterwards the collapse For the evil day can not be averted, come it will, and they who sow the wind shall reap the whirlwind

Mr Tilden was once thought to be an advocate of sound money, but he has sacrificed his position on this vital question to the hope of being elected The juggle of his remarks on finance is merely the labored effort of a cunning politician who wishes to convey an impression but studiously avoids making a pledge He wishes to produce and increase discontent in the popular mind and at the same time to instil a belief that he knows just how to apply the right remedy for 'hard times' and disordered finances He is master of an ability to scatter ambiguous phrases among the vulgar which the classic poet applies to crafty Ulysses of antiquity yet his promises on this subject might be better illustrated by the homely saying of the negro who was describing his coon trap, "It has," said he "a spring at both ends, and will catch de coon a comin or a gwine He is not unlike Bunyan's Mr By ends, who boasted of being a lineal descendant of a waterman who got his living by looking one way and rowing another which habit of his ancestors he boasted that he had himself followed through life with greatest success

No one questions the position of the Republican party as a guardian of the public credit. Of those who would dishonor the obligations of government none are in the Republican ranks It cannot reasonably be supposed that the section of the Democratic party which was lately in rebellion and which controls a third of the States of the union would be very anxious to pay the debt that was incurred by the government in whipping them into submission It would hardly seem wise to entrust the administration of the national debt and the care of the country's honor to them And if Tilden should be elected the South would control his party as it has always controlled it

When the Republican party received the government from Democratic hands in 1861 the credit of the country was so low that ruin impended and disgrace stared us in the face The last loan called for under Buchanan's administration had received no encouragement at home or abroad For much part of it as was taken the treasury had to pay twelve per cent interest and the bonds went at a heavy discount besides Note the contrast between that time and now Foreign capitalists offer to take any quantity of our bonds now at four and a half per cent [illegible] improved under the [illegible] party [illegible] those who bankrupted the country to be faithless [illegible] wasteful and unable to meet the reasonable requirements of the people

In this campaign the supporters of national principles—of those principles for which the country has poured out the treasure of its labor and the [illegible] of its blood—are confronted again by a united South [illegible]
